THIRD QUARTER 2006
VOLUME 26 NUMBER 3

THE OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE SOUVENIR CARD COLLECTORS SOCIETY

Monument to Washington

ON THE COVER: An engraving, shown full-size, on heavy, buff, 9" x 11" card-stock. It is signed, in the lower right-hand corner, "Gundersen." Gene Hessler lists "Gundersen, George A. Des & PEng. d. 18 Apr. 1975...He designed and engraved at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and later became the Art Director for the British American BNCo." I would like to know if any members know any information about this piece, e.g., was it part of any souvenir book and/or when it was done and for what use? Any help would be appreciated.

Larry Dodson adds some additional notes to the Washington-2006 show (pp. 3-4). He also raises a point that I have never fully understood—the name of the statue atop the Capitol dome. The Postal Service Guide to U. S. Stamps, which uses Scott numbers and, apparently, nomenclature, calls it (573) "Head of Freedom Capitol Dome" as well (989) "Statue of Freedom on Capitol Dome." Scott also lists "Statue of Freedom" for the newspaper stamps using image N4. The image has also appeared on BEP souvenir cards: B146, 150, 191, 222, 265, and blind embossed on B145, 147, 148, and 149. The reverse of those last cards reads "...figure of 'Freedom' was created from a photograph of the plaster model, used to cast the bronze statue which surmounts the Dome of the Capitol. The Statue of Freedom was designed by Thomas Crawford in 1856 and cast in Washington, D.C. by Clark Mills in 1858. Placement of the nineteen foot six inch statue was completed December 2, 1863." "America" is also the subject B48, and was the logo for the Bureau Issues Association.

I have a book, Pictorial Treasury of U.S. Stamps Enlarged in Full Color (Omaha. Collectors Institute, 1974) which describes (p. 58) the $5 stamp as "'America,' after a statue on the Capitol dome." However, the 3¢ stamp (p. 102) and the Newspaper stamp (p. 205) are both referred to as "Freedom"!

Another book, Philatelic Art in America (Weston. Cardinal Spellman Museum, 1987) by Cornelius Vermeule, states: "The head and shoulders of a version of Thomas Crawford's 'Armed Freedom' on the dome of the Capitol in Washington was backed by a wreath in the form of the crescent of Artemis and engraved as the theme of the five dollar stamp. The bust was dubbed 'America'...." The author goes on to describe that "'Armed Freedom' was the radiant subject of the three cent vertical commemorative...." He further notes that the image "appeared on the left-hand vignette of the five dollar United States demand notes of 1861. She is identified as 'Columbia'. Thomas Crawford's statue belonged to the high point of American Neo-Classicism in the years just before the Civil War and had the virtue, for national stamps and paper money, of being visible from every point in the national capital." In a footnote, "In the 1890's the bronzed plaster model for Thomas Crawford's Armed Freedom formed the centerpiece of the central hall of the old United States National Museum, the Arts and Industries Building, of the Smithsonian Institution in WashingtonThomas Crawford's own title, Armed Liberty.... Engravers therefore, had recourse to the statue without having to squint at the finished figure atop the dome of the Capitol."

"Freedom" is also the subject of the souvenir card F1981Ah (see SCJ 24:4, p.19). What's in a name?

Steve Patrick provides information on Memorial books, starting on page 5. For Paul Melnick's original work, see SCJ 12:2, p. 42 and 12:4, p. 22. An illustration of the cover of the Garfield book appeared on the cover of this Journal, Fourth Quarter 1999 (SCJ 19:4) which included the frontispieces from it and three other books. More "insides" were included by Bob Hallett in SCJ 18:2, p. 4 ff. (It should be noted that the number of the Journal corresponds to the year of issue, e.g., 12 = 1992, as the Journal was started in 1981, i.e., with issue No. 1. Accordingly, 18:2, is the Second Quarter issue for 1998.)

◇

Several members appreciated the "check list" I started last issue in my "Visual Reference" series. I conclude it here, starting on page 14. I am still working on plans to illustrate at least some of the Union ("F") cards and, perhaps, some related "collectibles." Let me know what you would like to see!

I get a Numismatic Newsletter via e-mail, and here's a recent item of interest: The BEP produced a packet containing matched, low-serial-numbered, un-circulated bills—$1, 2, 5, and 10 from the Texas facility, plus the two state quarters. By my count, that's a face value of $18.50. The report says that the 2,000 packets @ $129.95 each, sold out in 90 minutes after they were put on sale on 28 June! Yes, there were marketing/packaging/shipping costs involved, but still a pretty good rate of return!

[The author sent this article shortly after the last issue went into the mail. I did not discuss the ASDA cards because I do not collect them. One of the "selling" points for the show catalog ($15.00) was that it contained three (3) souvenir sheets: Liberia, Marshall Islands, and Sierra Leone! I would have preferred to have the BEP provide a real collectible! Ed.]

In "At Washington-2006" (SCJ, 26:2) Bill Kriebel provided a good summary of Washington 2006, particularly as it pertained to souvenir card collectors. The purpose of this article is to provide additional information on the show and its souvenir cards.

Programs given out at the opening ceremony included a vertically formatted (5" x 7") card. The nine lines of apparently intaglio printed text at the bottom of the card described the 1765 "British Stamp Act for America" and where the related embossed revenues could be seen at the show. At the top of the card was an embossed 4p revenue stamp (Scott RM25). No ink was used for the stamp, just the embossing. A raised border around the card was also produced by embossing.

Three full color souvenir cards (7.5" x 6") were available from the American Stamp Dealers Association (ASDA). The first honors the "Wonders of America" stamp issue and depicts portions of 12 of these stamps. Twenty "Wonders" stamps appear in the background in very muted tones. The second card is for Samuel de Champlain, who is shown in a standing pose at the left of the card. Single stamps from the United States and Canada joint issue are also depicted. The third card [below] is for the $8 Washington 2006 souvenir sheet, and a small picture of that sheet is at the lower left. The upper part of the card is divided into thirds, each of which features one of the stamps from the souvenir sheet. On the left is the $1 Lincoln Memorial stamp shown in front of the seated Lincoln statue lit up at night. The middle third depicts the $2 Capitol Building stamp in front of a picture of a brightly lighted capitol dome. The right third shows the $5 "America" stamp in front of a picture of the full statue of "America." [There are many people, including the USPS in their Guide to U. S. Stamps, who call this statue, which surmounts the dome, "Freedom." (See "As I See It", p. C2.) Ed.]

A fourth "card" was also available from the ASDA. While the three ASDA cards described above measure 6" x 7.5", this item is vertically formatted and measures 9" x 6". The entire item is on self-stick paper and features a label (approximately 2.75" x 1.75") at the lower right that can be peeled off by itself. The label shows Uncle Sam in front of an American flag. In his right hand is a flag definitive stamp. Suitable text identifying the show and the ASDA is also included. The rest of the "card" shows a stern Uncle Sam in front of "Washington 2006" in red, white, and blue. Uncle Sam is holding a magnifying glass. In front of him are three United States stamps, an inverted Jenny, the $5 "American" definitive, and the 3c 1939 baseball issue. At the very bottom is, "Souvenir Issue - Limited to 500."

The United Nations also provided a Washington 2006 souvenir card. Their card was described as an overprint on their 2006 "Day of Families" card, and was reportedly only available at the show. However, it is not just an overprint; it is an entirely separate printing. The original card has been slightly reformatted to provide more room at the upper left. The Washington 2006 card shows, at the upper left, a small blue and white show emblem (capitol dome on stamp outline) and the text, "WASHINGTON 1006 - WORLD PHILATELIC EXHIBITION / WASHINGTON, DC USA - MAY 27 - JUNE 3, 2006" in gold foil. The card was only available show canceled with a 39c Day of Families stamp.

At Washington 2006 Mystic Stamp Company was proudly featuring its recent acquisition of the plate number block of the Jenny invert air mail. People typically had to wait in line to see this and other rarities at the Mystic booth. Mystic was also giving away their own 6" x 8" full color souvenir card featuring the inverted Jenny plate block. The card shows a large picture of the block above the words, "World's Greatest Stamp Rarity / Jenny Invert Plate Number Block." Among other giveaways at the Mystic booth was the Ameripex 86 show catalog. This book, with a Statue of Liberty hologram on the cover, features souvenir cards and souvenir sheets available nowhere else.

A couple of potential souvenir cards were picked up at the booth offering the stamps of Macau. They are approximately 6" x 7" and are on card stock. Closer examination revealed them to be new issue notices. Illustrations on the front show the stamps of the issue, the first day cancellation, and illustrations related to the issue, while the back provides "Technical Data" in three languages, Chinese, Portuguese, and English. The two cards seen were for the Lunar Year of the Dog and Great Inventions of China issues.

Bill Kriebel's "At Washington-2006" article discussed the first day ceremonies at the show. Concerning the Washington 2006 ceremony, he says, "I saw only the $1 and $2 souvenir sheet stamps on cover, i.e., no $5. Anyone get one?" I had the same experience. I saw several of the $1 and $2 covers, but none of the $5 covers. Were they reserved for special dignitaries? Does the USPS have future plans for them? It would seem that the USPS should offer at least a brief explanation of the situation.

Bill said that he skipped the "Diplomats" first day ceremony. I almost did, since I had attended several of the first day ceremonies by that time. While waiting for it to begin I looked at the program for the ceremony. To my dismay, I saw that there were a number of speakers including a family member for each of the six diplomats. "Boring" was my first thought. To my great surprise (and relief), the brief talks by the family members were the highlight of the ceremony. They were thoughtful and inspirational. For me this was the best of the first day ceremonies I attended.

[An item I failed to mention in my article was that the Champlain souvenir sheet from the Canada Post booth didn't "feature" the long lines waiting at the USPS booth(s). However, their sheet includes a bar code in the lower left corner, the USPS's does not.

I also discovered that to the left of the main USPS booth(s) was a small opening in the partition where two USPS employees were "servicing" mail, i.e., if you wished something posted from the show rather than the "hand-back" cancels for the show days or FDOIs. To my delight, this booth also sold the new stamps that people were waiting in line to buy! I have since learned that the souvenir sheets will NOT be sold in local post offices, but only through the philatelic service center. That's a bummer! Ed.]

After you have collected all the modern cards (that you can afford), there are some options for souvenir collectors. Among these are Union Convention books, political ephemera like tickets to political conventions or inauguration galas, and memorial books, the subject of this article.

I was introduced to these about 15 years ago by former vice president John Parker. He has been my main source, but occasionally I will find one in an old bookstore and enjoy the rewards of the "thrill of the hunt."

What are memorial books? They are bound volumes printed by the Government Printing Office usually containing speeches and engraved front piece done by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Some collectors count an 1866 volume dedicated to Abraham Lincoln as being "number 1" although other books exist before him, and no one has ever attempted to catalogue them.

Included in this Journal is a checklist so that SCCS members can join the hunt. The original checklist was done by Milt Friedberg and Paul Melnick. Over the past year, I have researched every name on the list and included full names, birth and death dates, political party, and state where possible.

Most of the books were done to honor a Congressman or Senator who died while in office. They usually measure 7 inches by 10 inches and come in a variety of bindings, some with pressed moldings and gold lettering. Included are memorial addresses on the life of the deceased. As a teacher of U.S. History, I treasure each book, but I have seen some collectors who use an Xacto knife and cut out the engraving and title page and throw away the boring speeches.

No value is ascribed to any of the books, but the average is $10 or less. I have found them in old book stores and library sales for $2 to $5. The presidents and famous politicians and generals are probably worth more. A Lincoln in good condition can go for $60 to $100 and I have seen Garfield's for more than $200.

The 10 volume Messages and Papers of the Presidents has a card for each president through McKinley plus 14 D.C. scenes. There is a later reprinting, but it uses photographs instead. In fact, the cheaper process of using photos is the probable cause of the end of the use of engravings about 1920.

I believe there exist larger format books with more ornate engravings for Presidents McKinley, Wilson, Harding, and Coolidge, but I don't own them. Any members who would like to add information to this list are welcome to E-mail me.

It is possible to give these a catalogue number. For instance: MB 1907 a. could be Memorial Book, 1907, Adams, Henry the first alphabetically produced for that year. Realistically, there is probably little demand for such a system because there are so few collectors for such a narrow collecting interest.

I only own about 110 of the books, and by publicizing the list, I may have produced a number of competitors for the same product, but let the fun begin.

PRICES REALIZED: MINI-AUCTION No. 1

20	5.00	89	7.00	149	9.00	Total	447.00

There were only ten (10) bidders in this auction. It may be the HEAT of summer or ? that diverted interest. As can be seen there was NO apparent interest in the BEP canceled cards. The remaining lots from this auction are offered, on a first-come basis, for the minimum bids listed until 1 December 2006.

I propose to conduct one more auction in the Fourth Quarter issue and plan two auctions next year with (I hope) our new auctioneer!

NOTES:

- (1) To my knowledge Chapter Four's "Historic" cards (1997-2002) are still available. Contact source below for pricing or see Second Quarter issue. Large cards carry EXTRA mailing charge of $2.00 PER ORDER.
- (2) These "National Treasures" cards are still listed on their web site, moneyfactory.com, go to "The BEP Store," (August 2006). They are offered as a "Subscription" for $85 for all five (5). or $27.50 less than the individual purchase of all five. "Souvenir Cards" are those produced in 2000 (B238-249), the Western Currency Facility (B271), and the Cherry Blossom card (B279). The "Lewis and Clark Bicentennial Print" (B270) is "sold out," but the "Westward Journey" (B272) is still offered.
- (3) I believe that the Chapter One NAPEX cards for 2002 and 2003 are still available at $6.00 each ppd. Card for 2004 was sold out.
- (4) The "Ten Dollar Reflections" subscription is no longer offered as the first two are "sold out." It is reported that the BEP is only printing 300 cards over the subscription quantities!
- (5) The card is 8" x 10" so, presumably would carry the premium (see Note (1) above). SC FDOI with the $8 souvenir sheet, $20.00; SC FDOI w/Diplomats, $15.00; SC FDOI w/Champlain issue, $15.00; and SC FDOI w/three random "Wonders" stamps $12.00. Supplies are limited as a number were sold at the show.
- (6) An undated version is available: mint $3.00, SC= $5.00.
